ENAP, INC. PRESIDENT/CEO RETIREMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

December 31, 2010 - New Windsor, NY

After completing five years of service, Russell Kennedy has retired as CEO and President of ENAP, Inc. Russ navigated ENAP successfully through the last four years of recession and ENAP is in the process of completing a successful 2010 with a brighter outlook for 2011. Russ is confident in the strength of the management team and in the capability of the ENAP staff.

Expressing his appreciation and confidence in ENAP and his team, Russ released the following statement to the ENAP membership:

The past five years have been challenging and exciting. ENAP has taken action to improve the co-op and has made investments in staff and technology to directly benefit the organization. These investments, including our world-class Enterprise Resource Planning tool, which has completed development and is in testing phase, will provide a more seamless interaction with members and vendors and make internal operations of ENAP run much more effectively.

Until a replacement is selected, Steve Sallah, ENAP CFO, will be acting Chief Operating Officer to bridge the management responsibilities as well as keep key initiatives moving forward. The ENAP executive staff listed below is available and will continue to run the cooperative with the service levels and effectiveness ENAP members and vendors have come to expect.
